“ I never in a million years would have ever thought for a second that you would be taken from us. As the days go by it hurts more and more. This is an adjustment I don't wanna make, but am forced to. This is not how life was supposed to be. You were supposed to watch our daughter grow up, graduate highschool, go to college, get married, become a mom. And now you're going to miss all of it and it's not fair. I hope you're in a better place and that you're finally happy. Just please watch over our little girl. She really misses you. When it's my time to go, your face better be the first one I see. Until then, I love you. And I miss you so so much. Don't forget us. ❤️
